COX & HARDING BOTH CONFIDENT

NEW YORK, November 1—The American people today went to the polls by millions to deliver their verdict on the issues of the 1920 campaign. Early indications in the east were that an unprecedented vote would be polled. At 6 a. m. when the polls opened in New York voters were waiting and by 6:30 a. m. lines of people had filed passed the clerks. Many of them in the line were women.

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee and George White, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee were keeping in close touch with the east and at an early hour were getting a line on districts known to be Republican or Democratic. Their lieutenants in all parts of the country were telephoning in reports.

Both the Republican and Democratic headquarters prepared for a long night of vigil so that there was not much general activity around their suites until toward mid-morning. Weather reports were carefully scanned at both headquarters. Snow fell in Wyoming, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota and rain also was general in that area according to the reports.

Tammany Hall was the scene of great activity early this morning in getting out the vote for Al Smith, Democratic candidate for Governor who is running for re-election against Nathan Miller, Republican candidate. Tammany leaders were neglecting the national vote in their efforts to get a majority for Smith.

Democratic leaders here said that Governor Cox was sincerely confident of winning. Republican headquarters on the other hand were inclined to the attitude of Senator Harding which he himself described in a final statement as being one of "complacency" waiting for the verdict. Republican Chairman Hays has seen no cause to change his prediction that the Republican victory will be great if not greater than Roosevelt's over Parker in 1901.

MARION, Ohio, November 1—The outcome today is being watched by Senator Warren G. Harding with complacency. The Senator and Mrs. Harding were astir early in their home on Mt. Vernon avenue today. They expected to leave shortly to cast their vote in a small brick garage a few squares away. Mrs. Harding was to cast her first ballot for her husband. Harding will then enjoy his 55th birthday anniversary which falls on election day. He may motor to Columbus if the weather permit and will be kept busy greeting friends at his home. He will receive the election returns over special wires in his office in the rear of his home. "We are all set," Senator Harding said, "have made the best fight that I know how and I await the result with complacency."

DAYTON, Ohio, November 1—Governor James M. Cox having persisted "his case to the American jury" in twelve weeks of consistent stump campaigning arrived here early today to cast his vote. He was more confident of the result than at any time since the start of the campaign. In his final statement issued upon his arrival from Toledo the Governor declared the campaign was based entirely "on a great moral issue" and that the result will not fail. "I am confident that the cause for which I have stood during the campaign will be won."

RAIN WILL NOT DAMPEN TRUE CITIZENSHIP

It is gratifying to note that the news dispatches received today indicate that very few voters are remaining away from the polls because of the rain in almost every section of the country. It is particularly pleasing to note that many of these dispatches state plainly that the women are not terrified by the rain and that they are turning out in big numbers to vote.

There may be time yet after you receive your paper this evening to cast your vote. The polls do not close until seven o'clock. If you have not voted yet do so at once.

MUST PAY FOR CAMPAIGN SCANDAL

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 1. A libel suit asking $100,000 damages was filed in the Montgomery Common Pleas Court here today against the Barkham-Henrick Company, publishers of the Dayton Journal by Professor Wm. Chancellor, formerly of Western College, Wooster, Ohio, because of an alleged "open letter" relative to the personality of Senator Warren G. Harding.

COX SURE OF ONLY 157 VOTES

One man's guess is about as good as another in a national election and particularly at this time when there are so many cross currents in politics, and when we have a new element in the electorate which cannot be classed.

During the last week we have been studying the national political situation by a careful reading of the forecasts put out by the various so-called expert political writers and from these forecasts we have compiled a list which accurately sums up the consensus of opinion among them. The list follows:

FOR HARDING.

Maine	1
Vermont	1
Massachusetts	1
New York	1
Pennsylvania	1
Michigan	1
California	1
Illinois	1
Minnesota	1
Wisconsin	1
North Dakota	1
South Dakota	1
Nebraska	1
Iowa	1
Kansas	1
Wyoming	1
Washington	1
Oregon	1
Idaho	1
Connecticut	1
Delaware	1
Ohio	1
Indiana	1
Colorado	1
Total	157

FOR COX.

Alabama	1
Georgia	1
Florida	1
Virginia	1
Mississippi	1
South Carolina	1
North Carolina	1
Louisiana	1
Arkansas	1
Texas	1
Tennessee	1
Oklahoma	1
Utah	1
New Mexico	1
New Jersey	1
Total	157

FIRST RETURN MADE.

New Ashford, Mass., Nov. 2. The total vote here gave Harding 28 and Cox 6. This was the first result to be announced in the United States. In 1916 New Ashford gave Hughes 16 and Wilson 7. The vote for Governor was Clanning Cox Republican, 22, and Walsh, Democrat, 5. The polls opened at 6 a. m. and every registered voter had marked his ballot within two hours.

OUCH!

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 2. Out of the first 100 votes cast in the Fourth precinct, Second ward, in Topeka 37 were for Cox and 63 for Harding according to officials here today. The result implies vote preponderance in this precinct.

HARDING'S BIRTHDAY.

Marion, Ohio, Nov. 2. This was Senator Harding's birthday. A letter to the children of the Senator was sent out by the Senator's office. The letter was signed "Uncle Warren" and was a very touching letter.

Miss Helen W. W. was in the city this week.

DOUBTFUL STATES.

New Hampshire	4
Rhode Island	5
Maryland	5
Kentucky	11
West Virginia	11
Missouri	18
Montana	1
Arizona	1
Nevada	1

Total 117. We have conceded to Mr. Cox a total of 157 electoral votes and to win he must pick up 109 votes. In our list of doubtful states we have only 63 votes so that he must get all of them and Mr. Harding of 44 votes. Given Ohio and Indiana could not turn the trick.

Of the doubtful states Cox chances are considered equal in New Hampshire, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Arizona and Nevada, having a total of 33 votes.

New Hampshire is claimed for Harding by less than 4,000. Objections to Senator Moses may cut the Harding vote.

Rhode Island is said to be Republican through general dissatisfaction with Wilson.

Maryland is a storm center with both parties claiming it by a margin of 10,000. Kentucky is too steeped in Democratic yet to hold out much hope for Harding, but there has been a big change in sentiment here favorable to Republican policies in the last four years.

West Virginia is another tempest. Both parties are fighting for it. West Virginians are beginning to believe in the tariff and bets are even.

Missouri is engulfed in many cross currents of local politics and can go either way.

Montana is an enigma with Cox claiming it by 17,000, but it is not known just how much effect the Non-Partisan League will have.

Arizona and Nevada will likely go 50-50. The first to Harding and the latter to Cox.

RECEPTION FOR NEW PASTOR

The members and friends of the United Brethren church held a reception for their pastor, Rev. Alban and family Friday evening.

The following program was given:

Singing by congregation.
Prayer Mr. G. L. Barker.
Selection by Men's Chorus.
Address of Welcome Rev. D. J. Hummel.
Response Rev. Alban.
Instrumental Solo Miss Elizabeth Heck.
Duet and Chorus, Miss Kathryn Alban and Miss Marjorie Cowdrick.
Address Rev. DeStine, pastor of Eleventh Street M. E. church.
Solo, "Our Yesterday," Miss Annie Bowman.
Address, Mr. G. L. Kelly.
Selection, Men's Chorus.
Delicious refreshments were served by the young people. The church and tables were decorated with Halloween colors and tapers.

HENRY F. TRUMP.

Henry F. Trump, who has been in the city for some time, was in the city today. He is a very interesting man and has many friends in the city.

EXCELLENT SERVICE CERTAIN

The best kind of news was received at the Progress office this morning when we were advised that our election service would be received from the New York and Chicago loop of the United Press Association. This loop is known as No. 525 and is conceded to be the most complete and speediest news report of the United Press Association. It has no peer among any of the news associations.

The Progress has made complete arrangements for the receiving and giving of the election results. The projecting machine has been erected and was given a try out last night. A special battery of telephones has been installed and everything is in readiness.

For the county returns we have arranged with election officials in every precinct for them to telephone the results to us just as soon as the vote is completed. All of this will be handled on special telephones upon which there will be no other conversation but election returns as they have special numbers which are known only to those from whom we have arranged to get the returns.

The Progress office will be closed tonight but the special election news bureau in the tower of the Court House will be open all night and the returns will be flashed on the screen in front of the Diamond Hotel building just as fast as they come in.

The Progress will not undertake to give out election returns by telephone so that it will be necessary for every body to come to the public square and watch the screen. We thought this the better plan because the telephone service in Clearfield is not nearly adequate to take care of the other proposition.

A feature of the election night folk will be the second appearance in public of the Clearfield American Legion Band which has very kindly offered their services in order to make this night of nights in Clearfield.

We are not alarmed at the weather while it has been raining a greater part of the day it would be extremely unusual if it rained all evening and all night and even though it does rain there will be day intervals and during the period of the heavy rain, should there be any, we will withhold the best part of the returns until the people can get an opportunity to get out to see.

The service will start about 5:30 o'clock and there will be a great deal of interest in the returns shortly after that time as in New York for instance the polls close at sunset and automatic voting machines are used. The consensus of opinion is that the result will be known by two o'clock in the morning.

The ladies should not forget that the Club Rooms of the Harding-Cox-Clay Club will be at their disposal this evening as a rest room and waiting room.

It will be worth your while to get in front of the screen early in order to get an advantageous position.

The Progress has spared neither time, expense or effort to make this evening one of the pleasure and profit for those of Clearfield interested in the election returns and the cost will amount to better than $200. Our only hope is that you will get as much pleasure out of it as we are in giving it.

The following people went Sunday at the Sparkling Spring Hunting Club: Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williamson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Deach and son Clifford, Mrs. Ann Williamson and Violet Schaffer, Mrs. Blue Shreiner, Jack Shreiner, and O. G. Graham and O. G. Graham and O. G. Graham.

CAMPAIGN MOVES RIGHT ALONG

The Progress has received many inquiries as to how the hospital campaign is getting on. We are advised by the managers of the campaign that it is being carried on with just as much vigor as when it started several weeks ago.

One thing that possibly gives the campaign an appearance of having slowed up is the discontinuance of the publishing of the list of donors. This discontinuance of publishing this list is the result of a break down of machinery in the Progress office and were it not for this break down there would be two or three columns of names published every day.

The total amount collected is now well over the $100,000 mark and very few of the outlying districts have made their final report. In many instances no report whatever has been made but in every town and locality the campaign is being waged.

Attached hereto is a table giving the quotas levied upon the various boroughs and townships within the hospital zone. We believe that the people of each borough and township are aware of what they have done thus far and it is hoped that they will not be content until each has over subscribed its quota.

Brishin Borough	$ 800
Burnside Borough	600
Chester Hill Borough	800

Coalport Borough	1,500
Curwensville Borough	10,000
Glen Hope Borough	400
Grampian Borough	1,000
Pike Township	900
Woodward Township	700
Total	$200,000

The above quotas are based upon rated valuations for taxing purposes with modifications and additions based upon industries situated there.

NOVEMBER SIXTH

STATE COLLEGE, Nov. 1.—The privately endowed colleges and universities observe their "Founders' Day" each year with fitting services.

So does the Pennsylvania State College celebrate its annual "Pennsylvania Day" which this year falls on next Saturday, November 6th. Arrangements have been completed for accommodating the largest crowd that ever attended this distinctly Penn State function. At least 5,000 visitors from all parts of the state will be here and upwards of 10,000 people are expected to witness the Penn State-Nebraska football game in the afternoon. All Greek letter fraternities will hold house parties and entertain hundreds of visitors from Friday until Monday.

The day's program will start with a review of the student cadet regiment early in the morning followed by an assembly of students and visitors in the Schwan auditorium where Judge Joseph Buffington of Pittsburgh will make the principal address. Assistant-General Frank D. Brown will view the cadet regiment. The parade will conclude with a program with a concert in the evening.

COULDN'T RIDE THE BEAST

Jess Cartwright of Glenside met with a bad accident on Sunday last while trying to master a bucking motorcycle. When the motor was through with him he looked like a small boy. The day after the Fourth of July, after a week or two he will be able to resume his duties in his garage. He says it was his first attempt to her home in Plymouthville after spending the past week with his family in Madera.

KURTZ BLAZED TRAIL; WHO FOLLOW WITH $100

Many favorable comments are being heard today on the prompt and laudable action of the Kurtz Store in advertising the first $100 to the Clearfield American Legion Band which gave Clearfield such an excellent concert last Sunday. The store tonight to give more for the election crowd and will be in position during this winter and next summer to furnish music for Clearfield in all special and holiday occasions.

In yesterday's issue of The Progress an appeal was made to other firms and individuals to match the contribution of the Kurtz Store. We do not need to reiterate our belief that having a good band is a profitable thing for a town, its business and its people.

May we not have your name to add to the list tomorrow?

HAVE NEITHER DOLLARS NOR SENSE

Miscreants last night set fire to the bottom of one of the political banners hung across the monument. It is the purpose of the owner to severely punish whoever did this thing. It was suggested that they should be made to pay the price of the banner which amounts to $175 but no doubt the fellow who did the job has neither dollars nor sense particularly the latter.

William Letzinger who has been visiting friends in Ann Arbor, Mich., returned home yesterday. Mrs. William Shaw has returned to her home in Plymouthville after spending the past week with friends in Madera.

THE CASE GOES TO THE JURY

In the court of public opinion today the case of the American people versus Wilsonism is being heard. The accused stands at the bar of justice waiting to hear the verdict of guilty or acquittal. Should it be guilty the prisoner will be sentenced to at least our years solitary oblivion, should the one hundred millions of people believe in the administration it will be given four more years of freedom. In the court of domestic relations another case is being tried. Papa Cox through his pal Mr. Wilson has become enamoured with Dame Europe and a two year flirtation has incensed Ma Citizen who believes in a man staying at home and attending to domestic affairs. Ma has all her family there, several millions of voters, who are indeed likely to return a unanimous verdict.

Whoever wins, we wish him luck and he will most certainly need the prayers of every citizen if he is to honestly make an effort to repair the old ship of state.

Should it be Mr. Cox he must necessarily rid himself of all the incompetent office holders that have fastened themselves upon the Wilson administration like barnacles on an old ship. He will be faced with what we believe will be the most tumultuous (and let us hope not tumultuously) four years in our history. He must set about to correct the blunders of the Wilson administration and find ways to bring about an era of economy and efficiency in administration which will enable us to get busy with the payment of our war debt.

It will be possible for Mr. Cox, should he be elected, to ride only on smooth waters, keep well to the shore, and bridge by neglect, many of the things that will make the path of the Chief Executive thorny. He has so completely accepted the mantle of responsibility for the Wilson administration that he holds out little hope of those who are seeking relief.

Obviously Mr. Harding faces the greater task. Mr. Harding knows what is wrong and there is nothing to prevent him from courageously setting about the business of cleaning house. But in the cleaning of the house there is bound to be a lot of bumps and bruises. If we are to get back to safe and sane methods and if we are to tackle the business of paying off our war debt we are necessarily going to get hurt—in our pocket books. Thus far we have done nothing more than pay a lot of taxes for the purpose of running the government and paying interest charges. We must pay the bill.

A strong man is needed. One who knows what course to pursue, has the backbone to pursue it and will pursue it in spite of what criticism that will be heaped upon him because he insists on paying as we go.

If our next president does what he ought to do he will be an unpopular man within two years.

The Passion Play.

Accounts vary as to the date that marks the beginning of the Oberammergau "Passion Play." Some have it that the custom was instituted centuries before the thirty years' war, with a cessation during that period. Reliable chronicles maintain that it cannot be traced farther back than 1634. Those Oberammergau peasants make a vow that if the plague would cease, they would give the play every decade, a vow they faithfully kept with the sequence was broken because of the war.

BIG FACTORS IN TRAINING COLTS

Future Value and Usefulness Depend Greatly on Management While Young.

FIRST GET HIS ATTENTION

Education of Horse is Based on Reward and Punishment—Many Animals Made Vicious and Unreliable by Carelessness.

The breaking and training of colts is of prime importance, because their future value and usefulness depend to a great extent on whether or not they are well broken. By a broken colt is meant one that is safe to handle in the stable or on the road and that will promptly obey the orders of the driver or rider.

Memory and habit are the two main factors with which we have to deal in training horses. A horse acts through instinct and habit, and one of its greatest characteristics is uniformity of conduct. What a horse is once trained to do he will nearly always do under like conditions.

Education of Horse.

The first thing in training a horse is to get his attention. The second is to make him understand what is wanted. The education of the horse is based on reward and punishment. The reward, a pat on the neck, etc., should immediately follow the act of obedience. The punishment, to be effective, must immediately follow the act of disobedience.

Few horses are inherently vicious. Many horses are made vicious and unreliable by the carelessness or unnecessary brutality of their trainers. If a horse kicks because the harness hurts him, or shies at something of which he is afraid, punishment is not justifiable. If, however, after being stopped, a horse starts before receiving the command to do so, he should be punished. Horses are naturally obedient, and when thoroughly trained their conduct is uniformly good.

Best Training of Horse.

A horse should be trained so that he thinks there is no limit to his power to do the things required of him, and believes that he has no power to do that which is against the wishes of his driver. Above all, never ask of a horse something he is unable to perform and then punish him because it cannot be done. If during the first year of his work a colt is hitched only to loads that he can pull, he will develop into a good work horse, while if he is overloaded a few times he may become balky and worthless.

Work Horses Should Be Given Liberal Amount of Grain and Hay—Water is Also Important.

All horses cannot be treated alike. A high-strung, sensitive horse must be treated gently, the dullard sharply. The same force applied to the sensitive horse that is necessary to make the dullard act would be likely to cause the high-strung horse to rebel, while gentleness would obtain obedience.

To train horses successfully a man needs to exercise great patience, gentleness and firmness. If you are training a horse and lose your temper, you had better put the horse into the stable until the next day, for further work at this time will be worse than useless and may undo the work already done.

KEEPING UP SOIL FERTILITY

Provision Must Be Made for Maintaining Production by Fertilizing and Liming.

A noted agricultural scientist once said that it is the business of every farmer to reduce the fertility of his soil by removing the largest crops of which the soil is capable of producing, but ultimate failure results unless provision is made for restoring and maintaining production by fertilizing and liming the soil until it becomes better rather than worse.

DAMAGE BY POOR SIRE

"A few poor cows may do a little permanent harm to a dairy herd, but a poor sire will do untold damage. One thousand pounds of milk per year is a conservative estimate of the improvement of the daughter's production to credit of a good sire."

In a tub of sudsy water the soiled things are lifted, dipped squeezed, and the dirt flushed out, by some electric washers.

Other electric washers rock the washable fabrics to and fro, tossing them back and forth with the sudsy water to loosen the dirt.

This individual feature of continuously alternating the two best ways of washing clothes, giving you the advantages of both in one washer, ends all discussion as to which is preferable. Each type has its advocates, and both are effective. In the A-B-C Super Electric you get both.

Picking The Next President

Bitter Fight for the Senate Waged by G. O. P. Rival Claims on the Presidency and Democrats

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Appreciating the very great advantage of having both the legislative and executive branches of the government of the same political faith, managers of the two big parties have devoted much time and energy and money to the Congressional campaign.

Inasmuch as the Republicans control the Senate now by only one vote (exclusive of that of Senator Newberry of Michigan who is awaiting appeal for a new trial on the charge of violation of the election laws), with the chances about even between the Republicans and Democrats for control after March 4 next, the managers have largely concentrated on the Senatorial fights in the various states.

These contests generally have been waged with more vigor, and in some instances with more bitterness, than even the Presidential campaign. Although the League of Nations has been the "paramount issue" in the fight for the national tickets, it has been overshadowed in the Senatorial campaign, in some of the states at least by local issues. Thirty-four new Senators are to be chosen today, from thirty-three states, Alabama choosing two. According to the forecasts of political observers generally, it seems reasonably certain that the Republicans will return Senators from Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, North Dakota and Washington; while it appears equally certain that the Democrats will return their two from Alabama, and one each from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The expected changes, if any, will come in the following states which the Republicans are hoping to retain in their list: New Hampshire, Connecticut, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Utah and Wisconsin; and in the following which the Democrats are striving to retain: Maryland, Kentucky, South Dakota, Idaho, Colorado, Arizona, Oregon and California.

In no states of the thirty-three have the contests for the Senatorship been conducted with more energy than in New Hampshire and Connecticut, where Senators Moses and Brandegee have been subject to a hot Democratic fire on account of their "irreconcilability" with regard to the League of Nations. It was in these states that the chief irreconcilable, Senator Borah, made his first appearance on the stump in the present campaign. While the Republicans profess to be confident of victory, the Democrats say they are equally sure of defeating both these Senators, largely through the woman vote. Moses and Brandegee were both pronounced anti-suffragists, and although Augustine Lonergan, Brandegee's opponent, is also opposed to women's voting, his support of the League is expected by the Democrats to attract the bulk of the feminine contingent in that state.

In New York state also, which the Republicans are claiming for the national ticket by at least 400,000, although admitting that Senator Wadsworth will probably run slightly behind Harding, the Democrats are counting on a heavy woman vote, because of Wadsworth's opposition to suffrage. They are also expecting their candidate for Senator, Lt. Gov. Harry Walker to poll well in the rural districts where he is said to be especially popular.

The situation in Maryland is generally regarded as close, with the chances favoring the return of Senator Smith, Democrat, against Orvington E. Weller, Republican.

Notwithstanding that the Senatorship in Ohio is claimed by the political experts as reasonably safe for former Gov. Frank P. Willis, the Democrats insist that their candidate, W. A. Julian, has a good chance, although as a rule they admit he will run behind Gov. Cox in that state.

In Indiana, the contest between Senator Watson, Republican, and Thomas Taggart, Democrat, has been sharp and lively. The Republicans admit it is a hard fight, and they generally concede Watson will run behind the national ticket. Democrats say that even if the state should go for Harding, who they say they don't expect, the latter would have to get a majority of at least 25,000 to carry Watson along with him.

The Senatorial result in Kentucky is likely to be very close. An especially fierce contest has been fought between Senator Beckham, Democrat, and Richard P. Ernst, Republican, in which the wet or dry has been prominent, with Beckham on the dry end.

Missouri is classed among the doubtfuls, especially on account of the uncertainty of the reaction following Senator Spencer's altercation with President Wilson over what the President is reported to have told the Humanians and Serbs at the peace conference. Republicans contend that he has about an even chance of defeating Breckinridge Long, the Democratic candidate, while Democrats are expecting Spencer to be cut somewhat by his own party on account of his association with Jake Babler, who was involved in the Lowden pre-convention fund inquiry.

Senator Cummins, in Iowa, is reported to have had some difficulties in his campaign and Democrats are freely predicting that unless Harding and Coolidge carry the state by 100,000 they will have a fair chance of sending Claude R. Porter to the Senate.

The Republicans have found themselves in some trouble in Wisconsin because of the entrance into the Senatorial fight of James Thompson, a La Follette Republican, as an independent candidate against Senator Lenroot, regular Republican. The Democrats are counting on a split vote sufficient to let Paul Reinsch, their candidate, slip across. They say that nothing less than a majority of 150,000 for Harding in Wisconsin, which they regard entirely unlikely, will return Lenroot to the Senate.

Senator Mar. Smith, in Arizona, is said to have had considerable difficulty holding the labor support for the Democrats, owing to the popularity of his Republican opponent, Ralph Cameron, with that element. But the chances seem to favor Smith's return.

In Utah it is generally expected that Senator Smoot will run ahead of Harding, largely because of his prestige as a Senate leader and the influence of the Mormon church, in which he is a high official. Prohibition has also been an issue in this state, the drys mostly favoring Smoot as against W. H. Welling, the Democratic candidate. On account of Smoot's prominence in the "Senatorial oligarchy," both national committees have given considerable assistance to the Senatorial campaign in Utah, both financial and oratorical.

There has been much confusion in the Senatorial situation in Colorado. Senator Thomas having decided to run for re-election as an independent anti-League Democrat against the regular Democratic candidate, Tully Scott, and the Republican, Samuel D. Nicholson. Thomas' action followed the capture by the Farmer-Labor party of the Democratic state organization. In ordinary circumstances Thomas might have a chance for re-election, but with two Democratic candidates in the field the situation looks reasonably good for Nicholson.

In Idaho the Republicans seem fairly confident of the election of Frank Gooding, and the unseating of Senator Nugent, Democrat, although it is admitted that a Cox majority in the state might also mean Gooding's defeat. They are also predicting safe Senatorial majorities in both the Dakotas.

On account of his great popularity, even among Republicans, the chances appear favorable for the re-election of Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, in Oregon, regardless of the result on the national ticket. It seems to be the general opinion that only a majority of 100,000 for Harding could elect the Republican Senatorial candidate, Robert P. Stanchfield.

Recent defections in the Republican party in California, headed by Representative Kent, are believed to have increased the chances of the Democrats re-electing Senator Phelan, as opposed to Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican, although the expected heavy majority for Harding in this state may overcome what appears to be Phelan's present advantage.

BLUE GRASS IS DETRIMENTAL

Nothing is more detrimental to the growth of alfalfa than blue grass, and perhaps nothing is harder to get rid of. Some use the springtooth harrow, but it does not do satisfactory work. The Iowa State college says the disk does much better work, as it will tear out the blue grass and leave most of the alfalfa unhurt. Naturally, the disk will split some of the crowns of the alfalfa, but this is far better than losing the whole field. The disk should be done right after the first or second cutting.

SERIOUS LOSS BY CUTWORMS

Corn and Other Cereal Crops Suffer Greatly Every Year.—Fall Plowing Is Beneficial.

Cutworms cause serious losses to corn and other cereal crops every year in the United States. These worms are the young of brown or gray moths, or "millers," which lay their eggs on grasses and grains. The young cutworms live in the soil during the winter and attack the grain soon after it sprouts in the spring. Fall plowing is a beneficial measure for control, where practicable.

PROGRESS JOB DEPARTMENT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—If predictions were true it would have been a waste of time for anyone to go to the polls today. Harding would have been chosen by a majority of more than 100 in the electoral college.

That is, if you take the claims of the Republican managers and those of the Democratic managers (both of whom of course predict an electoral majority for their respective candidates) and subtract the latter from the former, you will have a majority electoral vote of something over 100 in favor of Harding.

The Democratic leaders have been conservative predictors in this campaign. In its early days even officials of the Democratic national committee were admittedly without any serious hope of winning on the national ticket. In fact, the campaign was more than half over before Chairman White laid any claims to possible victory. Even then he was not overly enthusiastic.

"It is a hard fight, but we expect to win in the end," were the first words of cheer that he had uttered in his daily conferences with the newspaper men. This was during Cox's western tour and was based on reports by Democratic agents of the Governor's favorable reception.

"The tide has set in our favor, and victory is assured," was his next prediction, made shortly after Harding's Des Moines speech of Oct. 7, in which the Republican candidate spoke the sentences that were so widely interpreted as "scrapping the League." After that White became increasingly optimistic, and the lethargy that had characterized Democratic headquarters was generally transformed into energy and even enthusiasm.

Rival Claims on Presidency 2
But over in Republican headquarters, only a few blocks distant, a spirit of complete confidence prevailed from the beginning of the campaign. Chairman Hays in the very first month predicted "a landslide even greater than that in the Roosevelt election of 1904." Roosevelt got 336 votes in the electoral college. Carefully, Republican reports from Cox western trip were sent contrary to those of the Democratic observers, which impelled Hays to raise his previous ante somewhat.

"We will carry every state except the old Confederacy," was his next prediction to the newspaper men at headquarters. Since then he hasn't gone much farther, except to intimate that there was even a chance of breaking into the old South. So confident were Republican leaders generally of a sweeping Harding victory that Hays had some difficulty in keeping the party workers up to the top notch of endeavor. After the Maine election, which resulted in such an unexpectedly large Republican majority, Hays found it necessary to send out thousands of letters to district managers warning them of the dangers of over-confidence.

Other Republican leaders, not quite so enthusiastic by nature as the chairman of the national committee, admit that the Democrats may carry as many as eighteen states, but they concede only Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona—total, 123 electoral votes. This would have Harding a total of 405.

Now, here is how the Democratic leaders figure on electing Cox, without including New York, which some forecasters have considered absolutely essential for his success.

Starting with the states thus grudgingly conceded by the Republicans, they add in the order of probability—Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Utah, Nebraska, Oregon, Colorado, Montana, Connecticut, Nevada, Indiana, Ohio and California, a grand total of 270 electoral votes, or four more than the necessary 266.

They have by no means given up New York nor Wisconsin, from both of which states they say the reports of local observers have been unexpectedly favorable, notwithstanding the claims of the opposition. They feel absolutely assured of the border states of Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia, and almost equally certain of Ohio and Indiana, and with even California, which the Republicans have been claiming by 100,000, as a probability.

The Democrats have been banking largely on the new woman vote throughout the country. But, how many of the possible 17,000,000 are going to the polls today, and how they are voting, is one of the most uncertain factors in the whole election situation.

Also there is the possibility of the popular vote for Parley P. Christensen, head of the Farmer-Labor ticket, and that for Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate, affecting the situation in certain localities, even though neither has any more chance of capturing electoral votes than has the Rev. Aaron S. Watkins, Prohibitionist.

The results in the various states will afford an interesting commentary on the respective merits of the two styles of campaigning followed by the candidates of the major parties—the rear-platform vs. the front-porch. During the campaign, Cox spent practically three-fourths of his time on the road; Harding spent three-fourths of his at home on Mt. Vernon Ave., Marion. As indicated above, the Democrats are counting heavily on the result of Cox's travels, particularly in the west, and have made a good deal of capital out of the fact that the Republican managers abandoned Harding's projected wind-up visit to the east, claiming it was a confession of their candidate's weakness as a warrior. The explanation of the Republicans was that this trip was a waste of time, the states of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey, which he was to have rear-platformed, having already been clinched. But if Connecticut or New Jersey, which Cox visited in the latter days of the campaign, should go Democratic—or any considerable number of the western states—this will be hailed by the Cox managers as a distinct triumph for the rear-platform.

100,000 they will have a fair chance of sending Claude R. Porter to the Senate.

The Republicans have found themselves in some trouble in Wisconsin because of the entrance into the Senatorial fight of James Thompson, a La Follette Republican, as an independent candidate against Senator Lenroot, regular Republican. The Democrats are counting on a split vote sufficient to let Paul Reinsch, their candidate, slip across. They say that nothing less than a majority of 150,000 for Harding in Wisconsin which they regard entirely unlikely, will return Lenroot to the Senate.

Senator Marc Smith, in Arizona, is said to have had considerable difficulty holding the labor support for the Democrats, owing to the popularity of his Republican opponent, Ralph Cameron, with that element. But the chances seem to favor Smith's return.

In Utah it is generally expected that Senator Smoot will run ahead of Harding, largely because of his prestige as a Senate leader and the influence of the Mormon church, in which he is a high official. Prohibition has also been an issue in this state, the drys mostly favoring Smoot as against W. H. Welling, the Democratic candidate. On account of Smoot's prominence in the "Senatorial oligarchy," both national committees have given considerable assistance to the Senatorial campaign in Utah, both financial and oratorical.

There has been much confusion in the Senatorial situation in Colorado, Senator Thomas having decided to run for re-election as an independent anti-League Democrat against the regular Democratic candidate, Tully Scott, and the Republican, Samuel D. Nicholson. Thomas' action followed the capture by the Farmer-Labor party of the Democratic state organization. In ordinary circumstances Thomas might have a chance for re-election, but with two Democratic candidates in the field the situation looks reasonably good for Nicholson.

In Idaho the Republicans seem fairly confident of the election of Frank Gooding, and the unseating of Senator Nugent, Democrat, although it is admitted that a Cox majority in the state might also mean Gooding's defeat. They are also predicting safe Senatorial majorities in both the Dakotas.

On account of his great popularity, even among Republicans, the chances appear favorable for the re-election of Senator Chamberlain, Democrat, in Oregon, regardless of the result on the national ticket. It seems to be the general opinion that only a majority of 100,000 for Harding could elect the Republican Senatorial candidate, Robert F. Stanchfield.

Recent defections in the Republican party in California, headed by Representative Kent, are believed to have increased the chances of the Democrats re-electing Senator Phelan, as opposed to Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican, although the expected heavy majority for Harding in this state may overcome what appears to be Phelan's present advantage.

Nothing is more detrimental to the growth of alfalfa than blue grass, and perhaps nothing is harder to get rid of. Some use the spring tooth harrow, but it does not do satisfactory work. The Iowa State college says the disk does much better work as it will tear out the blue grass and leave most of the alfalfa unhurt. Naturally, the disk will split some of the crowns of the alfalfa, but this is far better than losing the whole field. The disking should be done right after the first or second cutting.

SERIOUS LOSS BY CUTWORMS

Corn and Other Cereal Crops Suffer Greatly Every Year—Fall Plowing Is Beneficial.

Cutworms cause serious losses to corn and other cereal crops every year in the United States. These worms are the young of brown or gray moths, or "millers," which lay their eggs on grasses and grains. The young cutworms live in the soil during the winter and attack the grain soon after it sprouts in the spring. Fall plowing is a beneficial measure for control, where practicable.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—If predictions were vote it would have been a waste of time for anyone to go to the polls today—Harding would have been chosen by a majority of more than 100 in the electoral college.

That is, if you take the claims of the Republican managers and those of the Democratic managers (both of whom of course predict an electoral majority for their respective candidates) and subtract the latter from the former, you will have a majority predictor vote of something over 100 in favor of Harding.

The Democratic leaders have been conservative predictors in this campaign. In its early days even officials of the Democratic national committee were admittedly without any serious hope of winning on the national ticket. In fact, the campaign was more than half over before Chairman White laid any claims to possible victory. Even then he was not overly enthusiastic.

"It is a hard fight, but we expect to win in the end," were the first words of cheer that he had uttered in his daily conferences with the newspaper men. This was during Cox's western tour and was based on reports by Democratic scouts of the Governor's favorable reception.

"The tide has set in our favor, and victory is assured," was his next prediction, made shortly after Harding's Des Moines speech of Oct. 7, in which the Republican candidate spoke the sentences that were so widely interpreted as "scrapping the League." After that White became increasingly optimistic, and the lethargy that had characterized Democratic headquarters was generally transformed into energy and even enthusiasm.

Rival Claims on Presidency 2
But over in Republican headquarters, only a few blocks distant, a spirit of complete confidence prevailed from the beginning of the campaign. Chairman Hays in the very first month predicted "a landslide even greater than that in the Roosevelt election of 1904." Roosevelt got 336 votes in the electoral college. Curiously, Republican reports from the Cox western trip were quite contrary to those of the Democratic observers, which impelled Hays to raise his previous ante somewhat.

"We will carry every state except the old Confederacy," was his next prediction to the newspaper men at headquarters. Since then he hasn't gone much further, except to intimate that there was even a chance of breaking into the old South.

So confident were Republican leaders generally of a sweeping Harding victory that Hays had some difficulty in keeping the party workers up to the top notch of endeavor. After the Maine election, which resulted in such an unexpectedly large Republican majority, Hays found it necessary to send out thousands of letters to district managers warning them of the dangers of over-confidence.

Other Republican leaders, not quite so enthusiastic by nature as the chairman of the national committee, admit that the Democrats may carry as many as eighteen states, but they concede only Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arizona—total, 123 electoral votes. This would give Harding a total of 408.

Now, here is how the Democratic leaders figure on electing Cox, without including New York, which some forecasters have considered absolutely essential for his success:

Starting with the states then grudgingly conceded by the Republicans, they add in the order of probability—Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Utah, Nebraska, Oregon, Colorado, Montana, Connecticut, Nevada, Indiana, Ohio and California, a grand total of 250 electoral votes, or four more than the necessary 166.

They have by no means given up New York nor Wisconsin from both of which states they say the reports of local observers have been unexpectedly favorable. Underestimating the claims of the opposition, they feel absolutely assured of the border states of Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia, and almost equally certain of Ohio and Indiana, and with great California, which the Republicans have been claiming by 100,000, as a probability.

The Democrats have been banking largely on the new women vote throughout the country. But, how many of the possible 17,000,000 are going to the polls today, and how they are voting, is one of the most uncertain factors in the whole election situation.

Also there is the possibility of the popular vote for Parley P. Christensen, head of the Farmer-Labor ticket, and that for Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate, diverting the situation in certain localities, even though neither has any show of capturing electoral votes that has the Star, Aaron C. Watkins, Progressive.

The results in the various states will afford an interesting commentary on the respective strength of the two styles of campaigning followed by the candidates of the major parties—the rear-swinging vs. the front-porch. During the campaign, Cox spent practically three-fourths of his time on the stump. Harding spent three-fourths of it at home on Mt. Vernon Ave., Boston. As indicated above, the Democrats are counting heavily on the winning of Cox's travels, particularly in the west, and have made a good deal of capital out of the fact that the Republican managers abandoned Harding's projected wide-spread visit to the east, claiming it was a confession of their candidate's weakness as a tourist. The explanation of the Republicans was that this trip was not necessary, the stages of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey, which he was to have completed, having already been completed. But if Connecticut or New Jersey, which Cox visited in his latter days of the campaign, should go Democratic—or any considerable number of the western states—this will be hailed by the Cox managers as a distinct triumph for the rear-platform.
